Introducing China Economic Scenarios, powered by Fathom Consulting

9th October 2026

Capital Economics is delighted to announce a new partnership with Fathom Consulting to produce a China Economic Scenarios service.

The service brings together Capital Economics' best-in-class research and proprietary data with Fathom Consulting's scenario modelling and in-depth insight on China. It contains six thematic scenarios, with detailed forecasts and analysis of what each scenario would mean for China's economy.

Alongside the written analysis, clients will have access to a full set of underlying data through our Excel Add-in and API. Economists from both Capital Economics and Fathom Consulting will also be available for bespoke engagements.

The China Economic Scenarios service is being made available on a complimentary basis to all Capital Economics China clients as part of their China service in Q4. A fee will apply thereafter, with significant discounts available to clients who sign up early.

If you do not currently receive our China service but would be interested in the product, you can register your interest here. You can access China Economic Scenarios Q4 2026 here.
